This is my 15th year of teaching special education in the School District of Philadelphia. This is my fifth year as the Autistic Support teacher here at Kirkbride School.

As a special education teacher, I strive to meet the needs of all of my students. I know that all children learn differently and it is my passion to support my students to the best of my ability. This year will be filled with fun and exciting learning!

In order to support your child best it is very important to have great communication. Please feel free to reach me at the school's number 215-400-7980. You can also email me at any time. My email address is VRFREDERICK@philasd.org. I look forward to having an amazing year with you and your child.
